This Week—

BY M. I. N. I.

Carrying more than nine hundred millions for National Defense purposes, the annual appropriations measures for the services moved to enactment this week with the Army bill being sent to the President for final approval and the Naval bill coming up in the Senate. By thus catching up in payments on our National insurance policies we may be better assured of collecting premiums in the form of National security.

Plenty of action for the Marine Corps: Presidential signature affixed May 1 to the bill ameliorating some of the hardships in the administration of the selection system; immediate appointment and convening of a new selection board. Some results—more may be looked for from the Navy General Board's investigation.

One dark spot in the Army and Navy appropriations is the failure to make provision for lighter-than-air development. With the Navy not recommending funds for carrying forward its program in large zeppelin type development and the Congress restricting the Army's lighter-than-air program so that it will die out shortly, this nation is in a fair way to leave this important phase of aeronautics to the other powers.

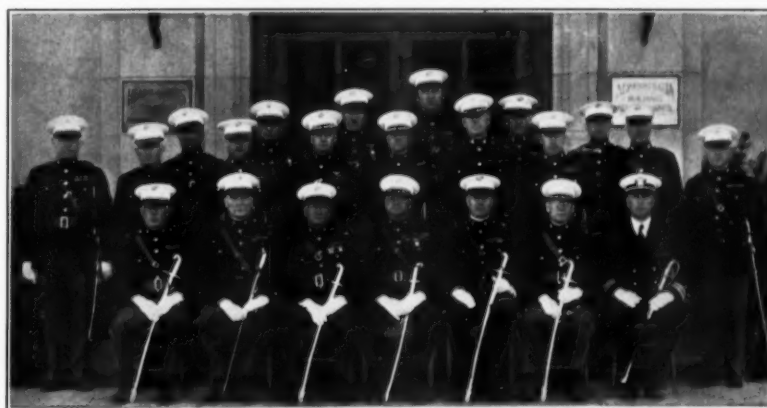

"This bill should be enacted into law without delay," says the House Military committee in reporting the Army's grades and ratings bill already passed by the Senate. It certainly should be enacted. Under it the President may fix the distribution of enlisted men through the various pay grades and specialists ratings to the better satisfaction of the men themselves and so as to further the interests of a service in which automotive, radio and other specialties are playing a larger and larger part.

The rapport existing between the Naval legislative committee and the subcommittee on Naval appropriations in the House was thoroughly demonstrated in the enactment of the Naval appropriations bill. With Chairman Cary of the subcommittee ill, Representative Vinson of the legislative committee pitched in and carried on the splendid fight which resulted in passage of the measure without the change of a letter or comma from the form in which it was reported out.

Orders directing Major General Lytle Brown to proceed to his home and await retirement reminded a regretful service that that splendid soldier and peerless engineer passes from the active list next November. May he remain close by where his presence will continue to be an inspiration and a guide.

Liberalization of the restrictions against the civil employment of retired Army officers is carried in the new Army appropriation bill. It is similar to that

Report Naval Supply Bill

Speeding up action on "must" bills in an effort to clear the way for adjournment of Congress early in June, Senate leaders rushed the 1937 Naval supply bill through the Appropriations Committee this week and presented it to Senate. Consideration of the bill was begun on the floor of the Senate, May 7.

Reported by the House Appropriations Committee, April 28, the recording breaking bill, bearing $531,068,707 for support of the Navy in the fiscal year, was taken up immediately and passed by the House May 1, without amendment. Hearings were started by the Senate Committee, May 5 and the bill, cut $1,942,901, was reported to the Senate the following day.

No change was made in the ship construction program, which as approved by the House provides for continuing construction on 84 vessels, laying down certainly twelve destroyers and six submarines and provisionally two replacement battleships. The House provided that the battleships should only be started if any signatory of the 1930 London Treaty should lay down a capital ship. The Senate Committee modified this slightly to provide that the ships can be built if the President finds as a matter of fact that one of the other nations has started construction on a battleship.

The $529,125,806 measure provides partial restoration of a number of cuts made by the House. Only two reductions were made, as follows:

A five million dollar appropriation for the purchase of a reserve supply of prepared and processed strategic minerals of domestic production. (This item was not sponsored by the Navy Department or approved by the Budget.)

An allotment of $295,000 transfer from

Army Appropriations Ready

The conference report on the War Department Appropriations bill, carrying a total of $572,446,844, of which $383,104,859 was for military purposes, was finally approved by the House on May 6 and sent to the President for signature.

Representative McFarlane made a last minute attempt to restore to the bill his amendment, stricken out by the Senate and omitted by the conferees, which would have limited profits on aircraft and ordnance material to ten per cent. But he found virtually no support and much opposition so that the House voted to back the conferees and kill the amendment.

As completed the measure carries a great deal of progressive benefit to National Defense, among which are the following:

Increase in enlisted strength to 165,000, to be accomplished through monthly increments of 1,500.

Authorization for 125 additional commissioned officers, 50 for the Air Corps, 50 for the Medical Corps, and 25 for the Dental Corps.

Approximately $8,000,000 for sea-coast defenses, of which the committee stated $3,000,000 was to be spent at Hawaii, a similar amount on the Pacific Coast and $750,000 in Panama.

Authorization for a year's active duty for 1,000 Reserve Officers.

Modernization of seven batteries of 75's and high speed adapters for more than 325 guns.

Liberalization of employment restrictions for retired officers.

Authorization for the reestablishment of Medical Reserve Officers Training Corps units.

Sign New USMC Bill;
Selection Board Meets

In accordance with the terms of the new Marine Corps personnel act, designed to partially alleviate the hardships of drastic selection in the Marine Corps field grades, a selection board was convened at the Navy Department yesterday with instructions to recommend for advancement four lieutenant colonels and nine majors who held commissions in those grades on May 28, 1934.

As this revolutionary reversal of naval selection procedure became law with the signature of President Roosevelt May 1, consideration of still more far-reaching changes in the Navy promotion laws went forward in the Navy Department. The General Board, which has been studying the entire selection problem since last January and has already determined to propose amendment of the present personnel act so as to make elimination in the junior grades less drastic, continued with the drafting of its report to the Secretary of the Navy.

There is yet no indication as to when the Board's report will be submitted. In fact, the only definite information which thus far has come out of the investigation was made public last week when the Navy Department informed Congress that, based on a preliminary report from the Board, it has concluded to recommend a change in the law governing selection and retirement in the junior ranks. The preliminary report to the Secretary, it was made clear, did not make any recommendation as specific changes, only that later it expected to propose that amendment of the law be sought whereby present elimination in the junior ranks be greatly curtailed. Despite the indefiniteness regarding when the Board will report, it is fully expected that it will be some time this spring or early summer and that legislation will be drafted in the fall for submission to the next Congress.

The Marine Corps selection board, which met yesterday, is headed by Col. James J. Meade. Other members of the Board are Col. William P. Upshur, Col. Charles R. Sanderson, Col. Russell B. Putnam, Col. Frederick A. Barker, Col. Emilie P. Moses, Col. Clayton B. Vogel, Col. Holland M. Smith, Col. Ross E. Rowell, Lt. Col. Alfred H. Noble, USMC, is recorder.

An Ahnav, announcing the passage of the bill and declaring that the board was to be convened, was sent out May 2. It reads as follows:

"0002, 15 Ahnav for all Marine officers Marine Corps personnel bill approved by President repeals section 16 of original bill, makes all officers on promotion lists eligible for promotion regardless of age, and provides for special selection board to recommend for promotion four lieutenant colonels and nine majors from officers now on active list who held commissions in those grades on 28 May 1934. No other officers eligible for consideration. Six lieutenant colonels and eleven majors who have completed designated periods commissioned service and not

Editors See Passage in House of Air Corps Bills as Big Help to Defense

The House of Representatives has passed a series of bills dealing with one of the United States' vital defenses—the Army Air Corps. The bills authorize 4,000 airplanes, create a Junior Air Reserve Corps in schools and universities and call into service 1,350 Army Reserve flying officers. No money was authorized in the bills to be spent on these three projects. In the following editorials the editors of the nation advance the opinion that appropriations for such purposes should be provided for immediately.

"The Federal budget for the 1937 fiscal year will contain the greatest peacetime appropriation for military and naval defense in the history of the United States," remarks the Wilmington, Del., Journal. "There are many reasons advanced to explain the need of the expenditures, and most of them are good ones, yet the fact is startling none the less.

"Considering that the United States is not greedy for any other nation's territory, has no old bones to pick with historic enemies, can get along very well with the raw materials it now possesses, and generally has no intention of going to war or getting mixed up in anybody else's fight, just what are we spending all this money for?

"We may well ask that question, and we do ask that question. Pacifist groups are constantly asking it. . . .

"Our military establishment costs us dearly. For what we get, we pay more than any other country. But it costs less, in the long run, than the cost of being involved in a war. Even should the nation be drawn into a war, a reasonable degree of preparedness means economy in lives as well as money. The cost of this insurance is high, and the insurance cannot be depended on to keep us out of war, but even at the price it is a good investment."

"April 20, 1936," says the Washington Herald, "was a great day for American defense.

"Without a dissenting vote the House passed bills authorizing 4,000 airplanes, creating a Junior Air Reserve Corps in schools and universities and calling into service 1,350 Army Reserve flying officers.

"The airplane bill was introduced by Representative Rogers, of New Hampshire, while Representative McSwain, the chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, sponsored the two others.

"The committee in its report broadcast a needed warning to the country when it said:

"Facts strongly emphasize that our nation is no longer protected from air attacks because of the wide extent of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans."

"The creation of a Junior Air Reserve Corps in our schools and colleges is an American answer to the Communists, defeatists and the pseudo-idealists in our educational institutions who are really trying to undermine our attempts to preserve a defensive peace.

General Pershing to Entertain the First of the A. E. F.

General John J. Pershing, General of the Armies, will be host on May 30 at a dinner at the Army and Navy Club, Washington, D. C., for the officers, enlisted men and civilians who accompanied him to France nineteen years ago. General Pershing's party sailed for France on May 28, 1917, on board the Steamship Baltic of the White Star Line. In this party comprising the first army personnel to go to France after our entry into the World War a few weeks previously were 57 officers, 68 field clerks and civilians, and 67 enlisted men. These formed the nucleus of American General Headquarters in France.

This party included some of the most distinguished figures in the American Expeditionary Force, among them Generals Pershing, Harbord, Ireland, Nolan, Alford, Bradley, Bethel Brewster, Conner, Feland, Hines, Palmer, Rockenbach, Williams and Taylor. Among others in the party were Eddie Rickenbacker, the noted aviator and automobile racer, Frederick Palmer, the eminent writer, and Col. Charles E. Stanton, author of the phrase "Lafayette, we are here."

Of the 191 men in the group 19 have died and there are eleven others whose present whereabouts are unknown to General Pershing, and with whom the General desires very much to get in touch.

The members of the original Pershing party have organized the Baltic Society, taking the name from the ship on which they sailed for France. General Pershing is commander, with Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, Col. Hugh H. Young and Col. Hugh B. Moore, as vice commanders. Capt. George E. Adamson as secretary-treasurer, and W. O. Charles B. Shaw, as deputy secretary-treasurer. The executive committee is composed of Col. David S. Stanley, chairman; Maj. Gen. Walter A. Bethel, Lt. Col. George S. Patton, Jr., Maj. Samuel T. Hubbard, and Capt. Ray T. Middleton.

It is expected that members of the Baltic Society will come from all parts of the United States to attend General Pershing's dinner. No rank or precedence will be observed at the dinner. The General of the Armies and the enlisted men will meet on common ground and in complete comradeship, sharing alike the distinction of being members of the first contingent of American soldiers to reach France, all partners in a great adventure.

The complete roster of those in the Baltic party, most of whom plan to attend General Pershing's dinner, follows:

"As the House Military Affairs Committee says, our present airplane strength is 'deplorable'.

"But we are now at last on the right road."

"The House has adopted a measure which will increase the Army Air Corps strength from 1,800 planes to 4,000 in the next five years," states the Portland, Me., Press Herald. "Provision has also been made to train youths from 17 to 24 years of age in private flying schools under War Department supervision and to put Air Corps Reserve commissioned officers on a better basis. No appropriations are made to accomplish these results but hope is expressed that the Senate may add items to the deficiency bill to make available the money to carry out this program."

Referring to the Rogers bill, the New Orleans Times Picayune says:

"To those who have worried about the deficiencies of our air defense this has a pleasant and encouraging sound. But it will be noted that the plane increase is merely 'authorized', and those who followed the discussion of Army Air Corps needs late last year will remember that it turned upon 'procurement' troubles. . . .

"So mere 'authorization' of the purchase of 4,000 army planes over a five-year period is not, we gather, nearly so encouraging as it sounds. Procurement still lags; hundreds of planes now in service will be put out of action by training casualties or old age, before replacements are actually delivered. The Army Air Corps, admittedly 'far short of its reasonable requirements' at present, may be in that same fix for a long time to come unless actual 'procurement' of the planes it lacks can be quickened and kept abreast of the congressional 'authorization'."

Commenting on the passing of the Rogers bill, the Austin, Tex., American said: "Emphasizing that many foreign nations have vast air fleets and huge airplane carriers, the committee said, 'these facts strongly emphasize that our nation is no longer protected for air attacks because of the wide extent of the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans and we must govern ourselves accordingly'. The House military committee has passed a companion bill for organization of an air reserve, training corps. It contemplates training of youth between 17 and 24 under War Department supervision.

"Today the nations of Europe and Asia have greater standing armies than they had during the World War; they have greater fleets for sea defense; they have greater air fleets of bombers and carriers and fighters."

"It is well known," comments the Charleston, S. C., Post, "that by comparison with air forces of other principal powers, the air strength of the United States Army is absurdly small. With the money, materials and plants which this country has available for the purpose, there is no excuse for such a condition to continue. . . . No matter how slowly civilians in this country may take to the air personally they are pretty well in agreement on the need for legislation and preparation that will insure to the United States an air force sufficient for its defense needs."

provided for the Navy last year. These are distinct steps forward but all such restrictive legislation should be repealed.

A salute for Lt. Col. James H. Burns, OD, USA, to whose capable hands falls the exacting duties of executive for the Assistant Secretary of War.

The Congressional Record of May 4 records the nomination of Capt. Arthur B. Cook to be Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics with the rank of real admiral. And you may bet, Mr. Senators, that Admiral Cook will be a real admiral!

Pass Navy Bill

Consideration of the Navy bill was begun in the Senate May 7, and all of the committee amendments were approved without debate. A number of Senators including Messrs. Nye, King, Shipstead, Norris, Bone, Benson and Capper, spoke in opposition to the measure. Three other amendments besides those reported by the Senate appropriations committee were offered on behalf of the committee by Senator Byrnes and written into the bill. Two of them were to insure that unexpended balances for ship construction be available next year. The other was that "the present incumbent as attending physician at the Capitol shall hereafter receive the senior rank of his grade, with full pay and allowances while so serving and as a basis for retirement." Later this was amended so as to give that naval medical officer the rank and pay of a rear admiral of the lower half and retirement as such.

The bill was passed yesterday afternoon after a motion by Senator Frazier to strike out the battleship funds was defeated 40 to 12.

Transmitting Documents

The Comptroller General this week ruled that, "There is no authority for increasing the cost to the Government of transporting a naval officer on change of station in excess of the rate fixed by law merely because he acted as a courier in the delivery of secret documents, nor is there available any appropriation for payment of such increased cost as for the transportation of the documents."

Name Army "B" Board

The Board to classify officers of the Army under the provisions of section 24b of the National Defense Act was named in Special Orders this week. Those appointed were Maj. Gen. William D. Connor, Maj. Gen. William E. Cole, Maj. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, Brig. Gen. George H. Estes, Brig. Gen. Robert O. Van Horn, Brig. Gen. Clement A. Trotter, and Brig. Gen. Walter S. Grant, with Col. Richard R. Pickering, AGD, as recorder and Maj. Clyde L. Hyssong, AGD, as assistant recorder.

Yesterday, however, orders were made public relieving General Connor from the Board, thus leaving General Cole as senior member. The board will convene in Washington May 25.

Navy Duty in Washington

By HON. MELVIN J. MAAS
Representative from Minnesota

(Author of the bill restricting Naval officers to not more than four years' duty in Washington out of each eight consecutive years.)

THERE is too much rotation in Washington of officers on duty in the Navy Department, with the same officers returning to desk jobs at Headquarters after only short periods away from the District.

This builds up cliques that tend to create self-perpetuating dynasties in the Navy Department. This is shown in the favoritism displayed in choice assignments to the selected few in the Navy and when "insiders" do have to leave Washington temporarily they get all the best billets until they return to Washington. The demoralizing effect of this practice is also reflected in selection for promotion. A high percentage of Washington "insiders" are promoted while many fine officers who are at sea or at more distant shore stations are out of sight and out of mind.

There are a total of 838 Naval and Marine Corps officers on duty in Washington at the present time, and out of these, 34 are of flag rank. Within a radius of several hundred miles or so of Washington we find about one-third of all of the officers in the Navy.

The practice of returning the same officers to duty in Washington breaks down the morale and is unfair to the rest of the Navy. It deprives many other officers of administrative experience. The officers who frequently return here for tours of duty have Congressional contacts that give them undue advantages and political backing. It would be a healthy thing all around if there were fewer repeaters to duty in Washington.

Both the Army and the Marine Corps have laws to deal with this subject, so I have introduced a bill aimed to accomplish this desirable result for the Navy. It would prohibit any officer from serving in Washington more than four out of any consecutive eight years. As at present drafted however it exempts Bureau Chiefs and those eligible to selection as Bureau Chiefs, Staff Corps and Specialists. I intend to introduce an amended bill to tighten it up. I have come to the conclusion that as at present drafted, it would not accomplish the desired purpose. There are too many exemptions. I hope soon to have a really satisfactory bill.

General Hagood Retires

Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, USA, at his own request, was relieved from his duty and assignment as commander of the Sixth Corps Area at Chicago this week, and was ordered to his home to await retirement. It is understood that the retirement will be effective the end of this month.

General Hagood issued the following statement at Chicago:

"I have requested the President to relieve at once from command of the Sixth Corps Area and give me the retirement to which I am entitled, after near 44 years of active service, under the act of June 30, 1882.

"My application for retirement has been pending since March 17th. I asked for it the day after my arrival in Charleston, but reluctantly consented to it being temporarily held up, first at the solicitation of Senator Byrnes and subsequently at the very gracious request of the President himself.

"I have been restored to command, and this has been taken by my friends as a vindication. But, under the circumstances, I do not feel that it will be of any advantage to the Army for me to remain on the active list for another year. Furthermore, there are certain phases of the case in question which make me feel that I cannot do so without a sacrifice of my personal dignity and professional prestige.

"I am not being lured away from the Army by any offer of lucrative employment in civil life. While on leave of absence I have been doing some temporary work with the Sears-Roebuck Company as a consultant in matters of a budgetary nature. As soon as this work is finished I shall devote myself to writing. I have in preparation a book in which I shall show how the United States can get a much better national defense at very much less cost to the taxpayer."

General Hagood, who had only recently been assigned to Chicago following a period "at home awaiting orders" had assumed his new post Saturday, May 2. Following the issuance of the order relieving him, General Hagood issued the following General Order to his command:

"With great regret, I hereby relinquish command of the Sixth Corps Area and of the Second Field Army. The President of the United States, in a personal interview, asked me not to retire at this time. But notwithstanding this unusual and most gracious action on his part, I feel that an unfortunate chain of circumstances has arisen in which it would not be fair to the service nor to myself for me to remain on the active list any longer. Nothing has happened of which I have any reason to be ashamed. I have done my full duty to the best of my limited ability. I have been with troops continuously for the past twenty-four years and I leave with the firm conviction that no man, woman or child who has served under my command will say that I have not been a just and considerate commander."

Stop Navy Enlisted Promotions

An erroneous table submitted to the House Appropriations Committee last year has brought about a situation whereby apparently there will be considerable stagnation in the promotion of petty officers next year.

Based on figures given to it last year, the House Appropriations Committee this year refused to appropriate for the distribution of enlisted men in grades approved by the Navy Department and the Bureau of the Budget and cut $949,103 from the estimate for enlisted pay. The funds allowed will not be sufficient for maintaining the number of men in grade now provided for and the result will be stopping promotions until the excesses in grade are eliminated.

The House Committee reduced the enlisted pay appropriation on the supposition that figures received last year were authentic and that the estimate presented this year was an increase. The House of Representatives and the Senate Appropriations Committee have approved the House Committee's action and unless the enlisted pay item is increased on the floor of the Senate, enlisted promotions will be something of a standstill during the coming year according to testimony presented to the Senate Appropriations Committee this week.

During the Senate committee's hearings, Rear Adm. Charles Conard, Paymaster General of the Navy, proposed amendments increasing the funds to permit the normal enlisted promotions.

"The purpose of these amendments is to provide for a pay-grade distribution of enlisted men in accordance with the distribution contained in the Budget for 1937, the reduction by the House Committee on Appropriations having been based upon a misunderstanding as to the distribution in pay grades which would be required," Admiral Conard said.

"Just how the distribution in the hearings for the 1936 naval appropriation bill was arrived at appears to be something of a mystery. We do not seem to be able to locate the authority for that particular distribution."

Senator Byrnes. "It came from the Navy Department; did it not?"

Admiral Conard. "But just who in the Navy Department set up the distribution is not clear. I am going to ask the representative of the Bureau of Navigation, where these percentage distributions are made, to give you what information they have on that subject."

Captain Kimmel. "Captain Jacobs, in charge of enlisted personnel section, will discuss that matter."

Captain Jacobs. "The pay-grade distribution under discussion, as shown in the 1936 hearings, shows a distribution of 8, 12, 15, 18, 22, and 25 per cent. These figures are incorrect, and the Bureau of Navigation has never used any figures approaching those in figuring for personnel. The correct figures for the pay-grade distribution, based on the treaty navy, are made by adding the complements of ships and totaling the number in each pay grade, as follows:

"Pay grade 1, 8 per cent; pay grade 2, 14.93 per cent; pay grade 3, 15.43 per cent; pay grade 4, 15.42 per cent; pay grade 5, 21.85 per cent; pay grade 6, 18.81 per cent; pay grade 7, 5.57 per cent.

The Journal Salutes

This week the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL salutes:

Rear Adm. Charles E. Courtney, USN, who has been appointed director of Naval Communications.

Chaplain Arlington A. McCallum, Ch.-Res., upon his reelection as president of the Chaplains' Association of the Army of the United States.

allowed to stand, will seriously embarrass the Navy Department in providing properly balanced crews for the ships scheduled to be maintained in commission during the fiscal year 1937. The Department has gone ahead with its promotion scheme for enlisted personnel based on the 1936 appropriation bill. At present, there are 1,182 men in the second pay grade in excess of the number which the distribution for 1937 will allow. This means that the fiscal year will be started with more men in that pay grade than there is money to pay for, and that promotion of enlisted men will be stopped until this excess is wiped out.

"It will be noted that the changes in the pay-grade distribution involve a reduction in the second pay grade and a corresponding increase in the fourth pay grade. The necessity for a large number of men in the second pay grade may be clarified if it is realized that most of the specialists necessary for the Navy are carried in this grade. These include turret captains, patternmakers, boiler-makers, coppersmiths, blacksmiths, and molders. For the fiscal year 1936 there are carried in these specialist ratings in the second pay grade a total of 710, while for all other pay grades in these ratings there are but 409."

Secretary of the Navy

Considerable speculation has arisen in Washington over the Secretaryship of the Navy.

Since the death of Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Col. Harry L. Roosevelt on Feb. 22, the Navy Department has been without an active civilian Secretary. Secretary Claude A. Swanson was injured at his home as the result of a fall Feb. 6 and has not returned to his desk since then. He has had considerable sickness during that time, suffering from pleuresy part of the time. At present he is reported "doing well," but there is no indication that he will return to the Navy Department in the near future.

Rear Adm. Adolphus Andrews, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, was acting Secretary of the Navy from the time of Colonel Roosevelt's death until the return of Admiral William H. Standley, Chief of Naval Operations, from the London Naval Conference. Since that time Admiral Standley has been acting Secretary.

There is a prevalent rumor in the Navy Department that Admiral Standley will act as Secretary until Secretary Swanson returns or the November elections are completed.

While the lack of an active civilian secretary has created considerable comment there is a prevalent assumption that President Roosevelt himself, in view of his active interest in the sea service, is performing the more important functions of the Navy secretary.

It will be recalled that the law provides for two assistants for both the War and Navy Departments, the second one to be the Assistant Secretary for Air. However, President Roosevelt has never appointed anyone for either department to take the air secretaryship.

Governor Theodore F. Green of Rhode Island this week denied published reports quoting him as saying he would be appointed Secretary of the Navy within a few weeks. The report said that the Governor told friends at the annual dinner of the Andrew Jackson Club at Worcester, Mass., last Saturday, he would be appointed Secretary of the Navy.

THE UNITED STATES ARMY

Army Aids Game Conservation

A comprehensive survey is being undertaken by the War Department with a view to incorporating a majority of Army posts and reservations of 300 acres or more into game refuges and sanctuaries. Formal announcement of a definite policy has not yet been made pending receipt of reports from the field.

A request for views has been sent out asking commanding officers in the field to report:

Conservation measures and regulations already adopted under the provisions of existing Army Regulations.

Recommendation as to what reservations may be suited for inviolate game sanctuaries.

Recommendations as to what reservations should be created game refuges with restricted hunting.

The names of those reservations which because of location or other local factors would be unsatisfactory for inclusion in the conservation movement.

In connection with the movement the U. S. Biological Survey, Department of Agriculture, has offered its technical advice and cooperation. Experts of the Biological Survey are qualified to recommend as to the suitability of an area for a particular type of game reserve and as to the development and care necessary to make such area an effective reserve. Field agencies of the Biological Survey will be available.

The policy soon to be announced by the War Department will be relative to cooperation in the nation-wide program of wildlife conservation and rehabilitation recently undertaken by various Federal, State and private agencies. In view of the extensive land holdings of the War Department, it is believed that very effective cooperation under full control of War Department agencies can be given in this meritorious movement without jeopardizing the primary purposes for which military reservations were acquired, that is for training, maneuver and target range areas in connection with the National Defense.

The conservation movement in general visualizes the establishment of a series of game refuges and sanctuaries extending over the nation. Game refuges are usually established on the larger available areas wherein certain sanctuary areas are set aside and where game feeding and re-stocking are undertaken, where burning and clearing are systematically conducted and where predatory animals and birds are exterminated. In a game refuge certain restricted hunting is permitted in the non-sanctuary areas, subject of course to Federal and State laws. Game sanctuaries are usually established in areas in which hunting is impracticable because of size or location or where favorable breeding or nesting conditions exist, or where other local factors make an inviolate reserve desirable.

"The War Department notes with satisfaction," it is stated, "that effective game refuges have already been established at certain of the larger reservations and that at Ft. Snelling, Minnesota, a game sanctuary, including an experimental station for scientific game breeding and management, has been established with the cooperation of the University of Minnesota and other agencies, all without expense to the War Department."

Naval Reserve Legislation

Chairman John J. Delaney of the special House subcommittee considering Naval Reserve legislation said this week that hearings would be started on Monday, May 11 on Representative Maas' naval reserve bill, the same time declaring that there is no intention of seeking enactment of legislation on the subject during this Congress.

"There is not a Chinaman's chance of any legislation going through at this session," Congressman Delaney said. "We want to take our time on such an important matter and present a bill which will be satisfactory both to the Navy Department and the Naval Reserve Officers' Association. However, we will hold hearings on the Maas bill and get as far as we can this year."

Meanwhile, the Navy Department in reporting adversely on the Maas bill this week, revealed that it is going to submit a new bill to Congress on the subject at the next session. In its report, the Department did not discuss the various features of the measure, simply declaring that there were "major" provisions to which they are opposed.

Enlisted Men for USNA

The preliminary written examination of candidates for the Naval Academy Preparatory School convening Nov. 1, 1936 at the U. S. Naval Training Station, Norfolk, Va., will be held July 31, 1936, according to Bureau of Navigation Circular Letter No. 12-36.

The Bureau desires that commanding officers make the survey, required by Bureau of Navigation Manual Article D-6103, not later than June 15, 1936 and that the following steps outlined in that article be taken in the order stated:

(a) Survey the men and require candidates to make out form N. Nav. 116.

(b) Require selection board to make recommendations.

(c) Require physical examination by a board of medical examiners. The board of medical examiners will forward Bureau form Y direct to the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, having entered on the form whether or not they consider the candidate physically qualified for entrance to the Naval Academy.

(d) Commanding officers review each case and enter recommendation on Form N. Nav. 116. In this respect, attention is particularly invited to Bureau of Navigation Manual Article D-6103 (1) (d).

The Circular Letter calls attention to the fact that the commanding officers recommendation should not be based on a candidates eligibility as to sea service, but should be based on the commanding officer's opinion as to whether or not the candidate is of officer caliber.

Bureau of Navigation Manual Article D-6102 (3) requires that nine months of sea service must be completed by November 1. In cases where the candidate can complete nine months of sea service by December 15, and where the commanding officer considers the candidate to be of particularly good officer material, the Bureau may accept such candidates.

It is also requested that the papers be marked as soon as possible after the mental examination, and that they, together with complete form N. Nav. 116, be forwarded to the Bureau of Navigation without delay.

Lighter-Than-Air Training

The Navy Department has announced that Lt. (jg) Richard N. Antrim, USN, and Lt. (jg) Richard S. Andrews, USN, have been selected for training in lighter-than-air craft at the Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J. The course of instruction will commence July 1, 1936, and will be of one year's duration. It will include training in the non-rigid airships at that station and in the Los Angeles in a non-flying capacity.

Alternates recommended for the course were Lt. (jg) Bernard P. McMahon, USN, and Lt. (jg) Charles L. Werts, USN.

Seven officers now at Lakehurst have been receiving training since July 1, 1934. Several of them will be detached this summer, while others will remain as students.

Major General Commandant

With the forthcoming retirement of Maj. Gen. John Henry Russell as Commandant of the Marine Corps in November, there is considerable talk in Navy and Marine circles as to who will succeed him. All general officers of the line are eligible.

Of the three major generals—Maj. Gen. James Carson Breckinridge, Maj. Gen. Charles Huntington Lyman and Maj. Gen. Louis McCarty Little—the former two are believed to have the better chance as General Little has just recently been promoted to that grade.

However, if the President should go down among the brigadier generals, Brig. Gen. Douglas Cassell McDougal and Brig. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, are the two standing the best chance of being appointed, according to the gossip circulating in Washington. General McDougal is at present Commander of the Fleet Marine Force, and General Holcomb is Commandant of the Marine Corps School at Quantico, Va.

Brig. Gen. Hugh Matthews is also mentioned for the post. But, observers state, as he is a staff officer he is not eligible.

U. S. Fleet Activities

The Fleet command continues to adhere to the commendable practice of making the cruising programs of the various units public months in advance of the commencement of the sea exercises and in consequence, the wardrooms and forecastles are all abuzz over the summer cruises the details of which are even now on the ships' bulletin boards.

All hands in the battle force under Vice Admiral William D. Leahy, will remain at their Long Beach-San Pedro anchorage exactly three weeks, commencing June 8, before sailing for Hawaii on July 1, via San Francisco.

Nine battleships and Submarine Squadron Six will steam out of the Golden Gate on July 6, destination, Honolulu. The battleships will return to the California coast on August 23, while the subs will stay in and around Pearl Harbor until next fall.

Meanwhile the Scouting Force cruisers squadron will depart from San Pedro on July 6 for visits to the Puget Sound ports and Portland and Astoria in the Columbia River. This cruise will end August 30 when the cruisers will return to Long Beach—San Pedro.

On June 29, the battle force destroyers will sail from San Diego for a cruise to the ports of southern Alaska, with intervening stops in Puget Sound and the Columbia River.

Remaining in the area comprised between San Diego and San Pedro, for the entire summer, for their usual tactical exercises will be the squadrons of the fleet air force, together with their carrier groups.

riers; the battleships Mississippi and Nevada which will stay at San Pedro as gunnery school ships; the heavy cruisers Tuscaloosa and Louisville also ordered to conduct gunnery schools. At San Diego, there will be gunnery schools on board the light cruisers Marblehead and Trenton, assisted by two destroyers.

The Fleet units ordered to visit Atlantic coast ports are slated to transit the Canal on June 1, enroute to Charleston, S. C. Headed by the light cruiser Raleigh, the other ships to go East are of the Scouting force destroyers: Hatfield, Fox, Brooks, Kane, Gilder, Childs, Williamson, Barry, and Hopkins, while the Humphries, King, Sands, and Lawrence steer for Norfolk, Va. On June 3, the following destroyers will depart from Cristobal for Houston, Texas: Breckenridge and Blakely. For New Orleans: the Greer, Tarbell, the Yarnell and Upshur, while the Ellis and Dupont head for Jacksonville.

Other notable early summer cruises will see the first "big ship" destroyer squadron off for Callao, Peru on the conclusion of the Fleet problem. This squadron—known as number 20—is made up exclusively of 1500 ton ships, and this is their first visit as a unit to a foreign port.

In the early part of the summer, the heavy cruiser Portland will proceed to Pearl Harbor for overhaul, thus setting a precedent for sending vessels of the heavy type there for major overhaul work. This is likely to be the beginning of a program that has for its object the utilization of the repair and overhaul facilities of Pearl Harbor and to familiarize the navy yard workmen with the latest machinery installations.

For the vessels destined to spend the summer on the Atlantic coast, Hampton Roads has been designated as the base for fuel and food supplies.

The United States Fleet has been invited to participate in the elaborate ceremonies now being worked out to celebrate the opening of the new San Francisco-Oakland Transbay Bridge, the date for which has been set for next November 7. The invitation, which originated in the resolution adopted by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, has been transmitted through Senator Johnson of California to the Secretary of the Navy. There is little doubt that the Fleet will be present in the Bay on the date set which is the Saturday of the annual football game between Stanford and the University of California at Berkeley. From this game alone, the bridge tolls are expected to amount to $50,000.00.

In connection with the ceremonies to be arranged for the opening day, the Fleet will have to share the spotlight with fiestas on shore at both sides of the Bay, parades of ox-drawn pioneer wagons, and representations of the gold rushers of the days of '49, and replicas of the old USS Portsmouth that in the late forties, helped to establish the sovereignty of the United States over the newly conquered California.

Gen. Conner Commands First Army

Boston—Maj. Gen. Fox Conner succeeded Maj. Gen. Dennis E. Nolan on May 1 as Commanding General of the First Army. "Established in obedience to an insistent demand for an official organ for members of the American Defense and those concerned with it, The Army and Navy Journal will be published in the interest of no party; it will be controlled by no clique. Its independence will be absolute. Its interest will be directed solely to the inculcation of sound military ideas and to the elevation of the public service in all its departments.—From Vol. 1, No. 1, of The Army and Navy Journal, published August 29, 1863.

SATURDAY, MAY 9, 1936

"Preparedness usually averts war and usually prevents disaster in war; and always prevents disgrace in war. Preparedness, so far from encouraging nations to go to war, has a marked tendency to diminish the chance of war occurring."—THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

OUR PRIORITY LIST

1. A restudy of the entire pay schedule with a view to the upward revision suggested by Secretaries Dern and Swanson.
2. Promotion systems in the Navy and Marine Corps to conform to service views and stimulate morale.
3. Repeal of the ban on reenlistment allowances; reform of retirement laws for enlisted men, particularly to assure reasonable disability retirement and adequate retirement pay; and an increase in the grades and ratings to provide better promotion prospects for enlisted men of the Army.
4. Fulfillment of War Department's modernization program for the Army; Baker Board strength for the Air Corps; and Treaty Strength for the Navy.
5. Revision of pension laws to assure widows of the Regular Services adequate, certain incomes.
6. Repeal of all laws limiting employment opportunities of retired officers.
7. Funds to carry out the act putting ROTC graduates on extended active duty and commissioning a limited number in the Regular Army.
8. Compensation for officers and enlisted men who use privately owned automobiles on Government business.

¹Modification of Marine Corps promotion approved by both House and Senate.

²Amelioration of Army restriction carried in War Department appropriation bill.

³Year's active duty for 1,000 reserve second lieutenants provided by Army appropriation bill.

THE SUPPLY MEASURES FOR THE Army and the Navy, now nearing final enactment, reflect credit upon the committees which gave them such careful and intelligent consideration and guided them through the legislative chambers. Before the President for signature is a constructive and progressive Appropriations bill carrying $83 millions of dollars for the maintenance and development of the Regular Army, the Organized Reserves, and the National Guard. Just enacted by the Senate is a Navy bill making available $29 millions for carrying on the sea services and taking up the slack in a building program which had been permitted to lag for many years. Both measures evidence the concern of the peoples, as reflected by their representatives in Congress, in keeping the agencies of National Defense from falling behind. In the Navy bill we find provision for the construction of 94 vessels, including funds for continuing the work on the 84 already on the ways and the laying down of 12 destroyers, six submarines, and, contingent upon the action of other powers, two battleship replacements. Thus the Congress continues the policy expressed in the Vinson-Trammell bill to build and maintain a navy of the strength prescribed in the London Treaty which the world hopes will continue to guide the powers after its expiration. For the Army Congress reaffirmed its stand of last year for an enlisted strength of 165,000. With this reassertion of the will of the legislative branch of the government we doubt if the Bureau of the Budget will again block its plans by withholding the funds necessary for the increased strength. In providing this strength Congress overruled the Presidential budget which did not contemplate 165,000 men until the end of the fiscal year 1938. To this will of the people the services will respond by providing the best form of national insurance possible and by giving, as they always have, the utmost of their time and energy to keeping National Defense at the highest state of efficiency. The one discordant note expressed during the Congressional hearings—apparent differences between the services over the division of responsibility in the use of aircraft over coast lines and water—went out to the country through the daily press. The people will find it hard to comprehend contentions differences between its agencies for defense. It is a matter for which facilities for complete understanding exists in the Joint Board. The solution should be made so clear that the nation will be thoroughly satisfied that its Army and Navy are working as one and not against each other.

RECOGNITION OF THE accomplishments of the Medical Department of the Army under most adverse conditions is given by Congress in the 1937 appropriation bill providing funds and authorization for an increase in Medical and Dental officers. The increase—50 for the Medical Corps and 25 for the Dental Corps—is far from sufficient but it constitutes an acknowledgment of the needs of the Department and may well presage additional authorization during the next few years. The Senate saw the need and voted 200 additional for the Medical Corps and 100 for Dental Corps but the conferees compromised on the reduced figure. The Department has had no increase since 1920 and since that time has had increasing responsibilities through the greater complexity of military activity, such as aviation, motorization, and other factors. In addition it has cared for the Civilian Conservation Corps, which at one time reached a half a million, and it now is caring for a regular establishment in the process of boosting its enlisted strength from 118,750 to 165,000. Despite this great growth in the number of patients to be cared for the Department has made steady progress in research and science. It has pioneered in aviation medicine. In the field of allergy it is leading the profession to a more comprehensive understanding of the etiology, diagnosis and therapeutics. The progress made for the benefit of the entire profession well justifies Congress in making another substantial increase in this important agency of national defense and national welfare.

ASK THE JOURNAL

SEND your queries to the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL QUESTION EDITOR and an answer will be given in this column as soon as possible after receipt.

B. L.—In order for you to secure a discharge from the Army after having deserted in 1920, it would be necessary for you to surrender yourself to military authority. Inasmuch as the World War had not technically ended at that time you would still be subject to trial and punishment for the offense (if the desertion had occurred in peace-time you would be immune after the Statute of Limitations had run). However, as the desertion was not during the actual war period, the Army would probably simply give you a deserter's discharge. This discharge would not be an honorable discharge and would not entitle you to the bonus or other veteran's benefits. The only way in which you could become eligible for the bonus or pension would be for Congress to pass a special act giving you an honorable discharge.

M. P. S.—You are number 15 on the eligible list for appointment to the grade of Staff Sergeant (artillery), Coast Artillery Corps.

O. L. S.—The method of folding the Flag is laid down in Army Regulations and is considered to be the most compact way in which it can be folded. Touching or dragging the Flag on the ground is considered an insult to the Nation if intentionally done.

Pye, USN, Director Fleet Training, Office of Naval Operations, will relieve Admiral Taussig as Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations about June 1.

Ordering National Guard Publications—Officers of the National Guard desiring to purchase or requisition printed matter relating to military or naval matters should do so through military channels of communications and not write directly to the Government Printing Office. In a letter to one of the state Adjutants General, the National Guard Bureau, through Maj. Arnold W. Shutter, stated that "The frequency with which such individuals requests are received by the National Guard Bureau suggests a condition in regard to the supply of publications concerning which the state might wish to take corrective action."

In calling the matter to the attention of his organizations, the state Adjutant General cautioned them to observe strictly National Guard and State Military Regulations in this respect "with a view to avoiding future criticism from the War Department." "While these regulations," it was stated, "contain nothing about correspondence with the Superintendent of Documents, United States Government Printing Office, same will hereafter be considered an office to be reached only through regular military channels of communication by all officers or enlisted men of the National Guard and Naval Militia where the purpose of their correspondence is to purchase or requisition printed matter relating to military or naval matters."

The Panama Treaty—Despite the fact that no one in authority at either the War or Navy Department will discuss the question, it has become quite clear that the new treaty with Panama does not meet with the full approval of the high command of the services.

Not only have directions been issued at both Departments that no one is to comment on the treaty signed several weeks ago by representatives of the United States and the Isthmus Republic, but according to a well informed source, Service representatives called before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee declined to give their views on the treaty to committee. This reluctance to talk about a treaty involving such a vital spot in the National Defense as the Panama Canal, can mean only one thing in the opinion of observers—that Army and Navy officials can say nothing good about it and would have to criticize many features of it, if they did talk.

Two provisions of the agreement, particularly, meet with Service opposition. Under the new pact, the United States expressly gives up rights held under the original treaty whereby we have the right to defend Panamanian lands and waters for the protection of the Canal and the right to intervene to maintain order in Panama. And under two separate conventions negotiated at the same time as the new treaty, we turn over to the Central American Government two naval radio stations, and abandon our right to exclusive control of communications.

Under the new treaty, it is agreed that as to the defense of Panamanian land and water adjacent to the Canal—the so-called "approaches to the Canal"—that the two Governments "will agree upon such measures as it may be necessary to take." This agreement to consult with Panama in the event of an attack on the Canal and the relinquishment of the right to intervene in Panama to preserve internal order, if strictly adhered to, would be incompatible with the defense of the Canal. One hears, however, that the treaty does not mean all that it might be construed to mean, and that as far as the protection of the Canal against attack or the maintenance of order in Panama is concerned, the situation will be unchanged. It is said, that despite the provision looking to the United States "consulting" with Panama as to defense of the Canal where operations on Panama territory may be involved, any actual consultation in an emergency will be after and not before action is taken by U. S. military and naval commanders. As to intervention to suppress disorder in Panama, it is said that the abrogation of our present treaty right to intervene will not prevent intervention if necessary to safeguard the Canal. According to common report in Washington, the Senate committee has been informed, that treaty or no treaty, we will protect the Canal against foreign attack or domestic disorder, and that the Panamanian Government understands this clearly.

What is sought by the treaty, State Department officials are reported to have told the Foreign Relations Committee, is to appease the National pride of Panama by the removal of these two and other encroachments upon its sovereignty, and thus promote the Administration's "good-neighbor policy" with which it is trying to capture Latin American trade. A number of members of the Senate committee, however, it is understood, question whether the negotiation of a treaty which seemingly does not mean what it says, or has a different interpretation in Panama and other Central and South American countries than it does in our State Department, is being a "good neighbor."

While, as War and Navy Department officials are supposed to have told the Foreign Relations Committee, questions arising under the treaty have to do with international relations and therefore any comment from the Executive branch of the Government should come from the State Department, complications may very well arise, it is pointed out, where the provisions of the treaty would prevent necessary military action. It is one thing to have the right to take steps to protect the Canal laid down specifically in a treaty signed by Panama and another to have to either proceed in accordance with existing State Department interpretation of the meaning of the pact or to move in contravention of it.

A further indication of this policy of adjusting present diplomatic difficulties at the expense of possible future trouble is seen in another provision of the treaty in which the United States gives Panama the right to build a road across the Zone paralleling the Canal. It is almost certain that there will be trouble with Panama whenever in the future we will have to close the road to Panamanian intercourse in an emergency.

In the opinion of many officers, however, relinquishment of exclusive control of communications, is the most potentially dangerous part of the treaty. Communications are one of the most vital factors in the defense armor, and the presence of high-powered radio stations under alien control within a few miles of the Canal is not welcome.

Army Chaplains Policies—All newly appointed chaplains of whatever component of the United States Army should make application at once to their corps area commander to take the Army Extension Courses for chaplains, according to Chaplain's Circular Letter No. 162. Those desiring refresher courses, involving such time as will not interfere with post duties, are advised to correspond with the office of the Chief of Chaplains in Washington regarding the possibilities of taking this work on a temporary duty status.

"The chaplain who loves his work and is competent accomplishes more in his field the second year than he does the first," states Circular Letter No. 162. It has been the experience of the Chaplains Corps, according to the circular letter, that results continue to increase proportionately to the years served. Although the nature of military service is such that no chaplain can serve any great length of time at one post, too frequent changes mean a loss in terms of character building service, says the circular letter.

The efficiency of a chaplain should not decrease before he attains the age of 64, says the letter, but the increase of years should be attended with better judgment, better scholarship, greater charity and love, deeper faith, a better understanding of men and of how to function most effectively. The Chaplains Corps needs both young and old, comments the letter.

Navy-Marine, Corps Selection

recommended for promotion or retention will be retired 30 June. Selection board meets 8 May attention all eligible officers invited provisions article sixteen fifty-five subparagraphs four and five Navy regulations 1358."

With the repeal of Section 16, some 85 Marine Corps officers will receive an increase in pay, effective May 1. While 257 officers are affected by the change in the law, many will not complete the required service to give them the higher pay of their rank until some time later. Also as the result of the repeal of Section 16, six lieutenant colonels and 11 majors will be involuntarily retired June 30. From among 17 lieutenant colonels who held that rank prior to the application of selection to the Marine Corps, four will be selected, six will be forcibly retired June 30, two will retire July 1 for physical disability, one will retire the same date voluntarily, and three or four will be placed on the retention list for one year. All but one of the lieutenant colonels have completed 28 years service.

Of the 38 majors to be considered by the board, nine will be selected, 11 must be forcibly retired June 30, one is retiring for physical disability, and those of the remainder who have completed 21 years service will go on the retention list. Only 28 of the 38 have that much service.

In view of the fact that in the past, selection boards considering field officers have been composed of general officers, there was considerable comment over the fact that the board is composed entirely of colonels. This change from the usual policy was taken, it was assumed, because of the desire of Senator David I. Walsh, Acting Chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, that the board be composed of different officers from previous boards. When the bill was up for consideration in the Senate two weeks ago, an objection was made against it on the ground that there was no safeguard that the same officers which had previously made up the board would not be appointed again. Senator Walsh told the Senate at that time that he would use his influence to see that the board had a different membership.

It is noticed, however, that the membership of the board, while differing from previous ones, includes at least three of four officers who were formerly junior to some of the lieutenant colonels they will consider.

One phase of the bill is requiring some study at Headquarters and may necessitate a ruling from the Judge Advocate General. In accordance with the section prohibiting officers from spending more than four years out of any consecutive eight on duty at Headquarters, all those, unless exempted in the law, who have been at Headquarters more than four years, will be ordered to duty elsewhere. The moot point is as to whether previous tours of duty are to count, whether it will be necessary to search the record for the past eight years of every officer now on duty at Headquarters or being ordered to duty there, to see how much time he has spent at the Department. Also being considered in this connection, is whether or not the President will be asked to exempt any officers coming under the terms of the law.

During the consideration of the Naval appropriation bill on the floor of the House, May 1, Representative J. William Ditter, Rep. of Pa., a member of the subcommittee which drafted the bill, attacked the Navy's selection system. Concluding a speech on various phases of the appropriation bill, Congressman Ditter said:

"Now, just a further word. I want the membership of the House to know something else about this naval appropriation bill. I wonder how many of the Members of the House here know about the operations of the selection board. I wonder how many of you know that officers in the Navy are ruled arbitrarily by a group—"

He was interrupted by the fall of the gavel marking the end of the time allotted him to speak, whereupon Representative Umstead, handling the bill, yielded him additional time.

"I thank the chairman of the subcommittee, because I would like to bring these figures to the attention of the House," he said, continuing.

"As a result of the forced retirements under the action of the selection board in 1921, the cost of these enforced retirements was $16,034.63. Mark these figures, if you will. By 1936 that cost had increased to $971,850.23. What does this represent? Year by year you are putting a colossal burden on the shoulders of the taxpayer as a result of the action of the selection board causing involuntary retirements from the service, and these enforced retirements from the service requiring not only payment under retirement to those who are involuntarily separated from the service, but the substitution of additional men who must take their places, thereby increasing the load and putting an additional load upon the naval appropriation bill to carry out the selection board policy.

"I feel that the Naval Affairs Committee has a distinct responsibility. I think it should bring in here some legislation to do away with the selection board program. I believe it should come in here and honestly face the facts and tell the people of the country that an expenditure of more than $971,000,000 this year—and the amount is increasing every year—has been brought about as a result of the action of this selection board.

"I know there are few Members of the House who realize the tremendous load being carried as a result of the selection board, and it is my conviction that the rank and file of the men in the service, with the exception of the few in the top grade, would welcome the opportunity of having this selection board eliminated and permitting instead the same kind of promotion program that is carried on in the Army.

Later Representative Carl Vinson, got the floor to answer Representative Ditter and the following discussion took place:

Mr. Vinson of Georgia. "Mr. Chairman, in the 2 minutes allotted to me I want to briefly refer to the statement made by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Ditter) in reference to the selective law. Let me call attention to the fact that the selective law was passed years ago, when the distinguished gentleman from Pennsylvania, Mr. Butler, was chairman of the committee. At that time it was, and still is, the opinion of those who are well informed about it that it is the most fair and equitable system ever devised in reference to promotion and retirement.

"The gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Ditter) pointed out that the legislation ought to follow the Army plan. What is the difference? Briefly, it is this: Stagnation was so bad in the Army—lieutenants had reached the age of 40 and 50 years and could not be promoted until Congress came in with a blanket promotion of six or seven thousand Army officers.

"The merit system enters into the selective system of the Navy. It does not give the ranking officer a promotion; he is not promoted when some officer above him retires or dies. I submit that the selection law is a fair and equitable method of grouping the officers, taking the list of names of certain officers, and determining who is best fitted for the next in command. As years go on it will be in the interest of economy instead of a burden on the taxpayer."

Mr. Ditter. "I would like to ask the gentleman whether he would acknowledge that the Army plan might provide a more equitable and fairer system and also entail less expense to the taxpayer?"

Mr. Vinson of Georgia. "On the contrary, if you retire a man at a youthful age instead of 64, where under the law they get 2½ per cent of the basic pay, it is more economical."

Mr. Ditter. "The gentleman will acknowledge that we have a board of men forcing into retirement officers that would not otherwise be forced into retirement?"

Mr. Vinson of Georgia. "That is absolutely true."

Aerial Coast Defense

The old controversy between the Army and Navy over the line of demarcation in aerial coast defense reared its head during hearings on the naval appropriations bill.

Representative Glover H. Cary, Dem. of Ky., chairman of the House subcommittee on naval appropriations, questioned Rear Adm. Joseph K. Taussig, USN, Assistant Chief of Naval Operations, and Rear Adm. Ernest J. King, USN, on the problem, declaring that he understood the Army's plans duplicated functions expected to be performed by the Navy's new patrol planes.

"Is it not true that the Army is preparing to patrol from Panama to Hawaii and up to Alaska, making a triangle out from the West Coast," asked Mr. Cary.

"They may be preparing," said Admiral Taussig, "but it is none of their business and it is not in accord with the agreement of the Joint Army and Navy Board approved by the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of War."

"That is just the thing I am getting at," the Representative said. "Now, then should we have a duplication of that same service here?"

Admiral Taussig. "It should not be; because the functions of the Army and Navy in the coast defense have all been worked out with the Joint Board of the Army and Navy. We are in entire agreement, and it has been approved by the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy. And the idea is the Navy controls over the water; the Army controls over the land."

Mr. Cary. "That is the thing I want to ask about."

Admiral Taussig. "Oh, you will find, Mr. Cary, if you will talk to the Army General Staff about the functions of the Army aircraft, they will be in quite agreement with the Chief of Naval Operations in his war plans."

Mr. Cary. "I do not doubt that; but the thing I am trying to get at here, what we are really interested in and the thing that some of you ought to be able to tell us is, is it not a fact that the Army is preparing to do this same patrol work?"

Admiral King. "They won't tell us, Mr. Cary."

Admiral Taussig. "They are not supposed to be. If they are doing it, they are not supposed to."

Mr. Cary. "That is our understanding, that they are planning to be prepared for the performance of such a mission."

Admiral Taussig. "If you will let the Army air fellows go, they will take up the whole business, of course."

Mr. Cary. "I have no doubt you are right about that. I can see that your plan of patrol is certainly very necessary and it strikes me that the patrol of the water ought to be done by the Navy. There certainly ought not to be any overlapping or any preparation along the same lines by both the Army and the Navy."

Admiral King. "Quite right."

Mrs. Paul S. FT. DAVIS, C. Z.

April 27, 1936

Some verses on the officers' bulletin board last week told how—

Thru Captain Roemer's kindness
With Headquarters Company mess
The Colonel is giving a breakfast party
And invites you all as guests, gave some details as to time and place, and ended with a note of warning—
A sunrise in the jungle!

Does that idea appeal?
If you care to go, sign your name below,
At least you'll get a good meal.
If you find you're grumpy, don't squeal!
Interest in this expedition was further stimulated by other poetic notices. The curiosity of the neophytes had a hard struggle to resist this description of one poet's dream—
The scenes passed swiftly in bright array
Of the coming of dawn—at break of day—
The vivid change from the still of the night
With its noiseless prowlers that flee with the light;
Boas, panthers, jaguars—stealth is their game—
How quickly they vanish with the sun's bright flame.
The chirp of an insect, lusty and strong,
The song of a night bird, romantic but long,
Is quieted with the coming of dawn
An the stillness of the night is gone.
After having listened through several maneuvers to their husbands' fantastic stories, this extract from another poetic outburst struck a responsive chord among the ladies—
Behold at last here's the opportunity
For "gals" to go military with impunity
A regular "movement" by truck and trail
On Sunday morning ere dawn grows pale.
(And what an elegant chance to find out
If maneuvers are tuff as the men tell about!)

In all some two scores answered "here" at the assembly point at 4:30 A. M., last Sunday, inspired as greatly, no doubt, by the delightful menu pictured to them in verse, beginning with—

Sparkling sunbeams in orange juice
That vie with the glint of a feminine eye, and going on to describe the sausages, hot cakes, etc., that were to follow.

Unfortunately, the black panthers, boa constrictors, and other denizens of the jungles so often encountered by the officers on maneuvers, seemed to be absent last Sunday. It is rumored that in the future their wives will be more skeptical of stories of adventure and hardships the officers bring home.

The hot cakes turned out (or should we say "turned over") by the cook, were quite up to their established reputation, the weather was perfect, and the injunction to—
Bring your own head-net and fool the mosquitoes,

He's a nosey old devil and a terrible eater, proved to be entirely unnecessary as not a single anophales was stirring. It is reported that a good time was had by all.

Annapolis, Md.—Navy outclassed Cornell here May 2 in three of the four races rowed on the Severn River. Cornell's 150-pound crew scored a decisive victory over the Navy 150-pounders in the first event. However, the Navy varsity, junior varsity and Plebe crews came through with victories of a half-length, two lengths, and a half-length, respectively. The official times for the race were: Varsity race: Navy, 9:24.8; Cornell, 9:29.8. Junior varsity race: Navy, 9:35.3; Cornell, 9:42. Freshman-plebe race: Navy, 9:46; Cornell, 9:51. 150-pound race: Cornell, 7:01; Navy, 7:37. All races were a mile and three-quarters except the 150-pound event which was a mile and five-sixteenths.

Cadet Joe Patterson, captain of the track team, clipped a tenth of a second off the 120-yard high hurdle record at the Academy with his 15.1 seconds mark as the Navy topped the University of Virginia, 71-55. Cadet Patterson a first in the board jump also.

In other contests the Navy varsity scored an 8-3 victory over the Yale lacrosse team; the baseball team scored over Temple, 6-5; the varsity tennis team drubbed New York University, 7-2; and the golf team was beaten by Washington and Lee University, 17-10, while the Plebes swamped the Western High of Washington, D. C., tennis team, 9-0; the Plebe lacrosse defeated Severn School, 10-1; and the Plebe track team topped Baltimore City College, 90%-20%. The Navy B squad baseball team was nosed out, 12-11, by the Baltimore Athletic Club.

West Point, N. Y.—Army's track team took the Boston College team over the jumps Saturday, May 2, here, winning 100-26. However, in other contests Army did not fare so well, losing the Middlebury College baseball team, 8-7, and to the St. John's of Annapolis lacrosse team, 12-11.

Navy Supply Bill

the Naval Hospital Fund; for starting construction on the Naval Hospital, Washington, D. C.

The increases made by the Senate committee were:

A $2,000,700 addition to shore construction funds under the Bureau of Yards and Docks which will permit starting the $3,500,000 Naval Ship Model Basin at Cabin John, Md., the authorization for which just became law; $1,100,000 additional for harbor improvement at Pearl Harbor, T. H.; $270,000 for improving the interior illumination at the Naval Academy; and $300,000 for shore front improvement at the Naval Operation Base, Norfolk, Va.

An additional $131,531 for the Naval Reserve.

Eight hundred thousand dollars additional was allowed for the Bureau of Ordnance, restoring part of a $1,800,000 cut made by the House Appropriations Committee.

Half of a $10,000 cut made by the House in the funds for maintenance, operations and upkeep of the Naval Training Station, Newport, R. I.

A five thousand dollar cut made by the House in the expenses of prisons and prisoners was restored.

Twenty-five thousand dollars additional was allowed for the collection of information for the Office of Naval Intelligence (a $60,000 increase over current funds approved by the Bureau of the Budget had been eliminated in the House).

Two items, $3,379 under Instruction, Bureau of Navigation and $15,793 for the Naval Academy were allowed for carrying out the Naval Academy retirement plan for civilian instructors; an additional $5,243 was allowed for pay of civilian employees at the Naval Academy, and $200 was allowed for physical instructors pay. (The funds provided in the Budget for additional physical instructors and eliminated in the House, were not restored, however).

An increase of $51,673 was allowed for the Marine Corps, providing $10,300 additional for flight pay, $9,540 for pay and allowances, $19,000 additional for transportation of troops and $22,530 for general expenses, Marine Corps Reserve. The latter increase and the $9,540 increase in pay, will permit the enrollment of 450 instead of 288 college students in the platoon leaders training course. The additional flight pay is to enable the Marine Corps to commission 15 aviation cadets as second lieutenants in the Regular Marine Corps. Competitive examinations will be given to cadets not at Pensacola, it is said.

An additional $3,200 was allowed for the employment of a patent attorney in the Judge Advocate General's Office and $1,580 was added to the appropriation for civilian pay under the Office of Naval Intelligence.

The Senate Committee struck out several limitations contained in the bill. As passed by the House $600,000 of the funds allotted to the Bureau of Engineering was earmarked for expenditure in experimentation with Diesel engines. This was eliminated, as was a proviso inserted in the House limiting the Naval Aircraft Factory from constructing any airplanes other than training planes and anything but experimental engines. The Navy Department requested elimination of both provisos. In inserting the former, the House made no provision for additional fund for the Diesel experimentation with the result that it would have to be taken from other projects.

The limitation on the transfer of travel funds from "Pay of the Navy" and "Pay of the Marine Corps" for expenditure in connection with the flying of new airplanes was increased from $24,000 to $50,000.

In providing $131,531 for the Naval Reserve, the Committee was restoring only part of a $921,531 cut made by the House. Under a program of expansion for the Reserve approved by the President, the Budget had allowed funds for 14-day training for officers and men of the Merchant Marine Naval Reserve, a large increase in 14-day training funds for the Volunteer Naval Reserve, money for giving 1,000 college students 45 days training duty as student officers, funds for subsistence for week-end cruises for the organized Fleet Naval Reserve, and funds for bringing Reserve divisions to the ocean for training aboard ships of the Fleet. The House disapproved the additional funds for this expansion. It was not specified as to what items the Senate increase would apply, leaving it to the Navy Department.

The bill was passed by the House May 1 without change. A number of amendments were offered but only on two was there any real fight made. Proposals to increase the appropriation for the Naval Research Laboratory, and for the Newport, R. I., Training Station, were voted down while two amendments went out on a point of order to the effect that there was no authorization for the expenditure. Representative Couden of California proposed the purchase of an athletic field at San Pedro as a memorial for the officers and men who lost their lives in the explosion on the USS Mississippi in 1924 and also the construction of a graving dock at the same city. Representative Hancock tried to amend the bill to permit officers to be given instruction in Staff Corps duties within five years of graduation from the Naval Academy instead of three as carried in the bill.

Something of fight was staged by Republican members of the naval appropriations subcommittee to prevent the construction of the ten million dollar floating dry-dock, funds for which were allowed last year in the deficiency bill. They contended that the project was a costly and doubtful experiment. Led by Representative Carl Vinson, chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee, the majority voted down the proposed limitation.

"Small navy" forces in the House concentrated on a move to strike out the provision for the construction of two battleships, but were snowed under, 212 to 73, in the only record vote taken.

In the absence of Representative Glover H. Cary, chairman of the naval appropriations subcommittee the bill was handled on the floor by Representative Scott Umstead. Both Mr. Umstead and Representative Clarence McLeod, ranking Republican member of the subcommittee, took occasion during the debate on the bill to give high praise to Mr. John Pugh, clerk of the Navy subcommittee. Mr. Pugh, formerly employed in the Navy Department, is clerk for not only the Navy subcommittee but also the subcommittee on Army appropriations.

The vote on the motion to strike out the two battleships, was as follows:

Aircraft Profits

Opponents of the McFarlane amendment limiting aircraft profits included Representatives Kvale, Dockweiler, Rogers of New Hampshire, Maas and Hill of Alabama.

"I hate to limit them," said Mr. Kvale, "to the point where they are unable to carry on their research work and keep up their scientific laboratory, carry on the work necessary to improve their product beyond what today is obsolete or obsolescent. I feel certain they are gentlemen who desire to protect the interests of the Government, and they have admittedly done things of which they can well feel proud. The record upon that matter will speak for itself."

Mr. Dockweiler declared, "Ever since the Wright brothers on this eastern coast successfully flew the first airplane in our memory, what do you suppose would have been the progress of aviation, if the activities of all those interested in aviation were limited to a profit of 10 per cent? I am willing to assert that there has been no profit of 10 per cent throughout the history of airplane manufacture. Of course, it is an appealing, an alluring thing to say to Congressmen that we should limit manufacturers to a profit of 10 per cent. There is a sophistry in it, but it is a dangerous sophistry. We could not pay for the advancement in aviation, particularly the science of aviation, the science of building aircraft, if we demanded or permitted this limitation on every contract that is entered into. Remember it is on each and every contract. I know for a fact that it requires from $200,000 to $500,000 to prepare a model of a ship—to make the jigs and dies required before a contract is ever entered into."

Mr. Rogers pointed out that, "In a communication to the Senate committee from Acting Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, he stated that this amendment should be stricken from the bill for the following reasons, which I gladly adopt as my own:

"The section which it is recommended be omitted is objectionable because it will—

"(1) Greatly increase the complexity and delay of procurements;

"(2) Stifle research and development;

"(3) Reduce competition;

"(4) Give rise to colossal difficulties of administration; and

"(5) Tremendously increase the cost of checking the books of contractors and necessitate the employment of many more cost accountants than have heretofore been employed on Government contracts."

General Pershing Awarded Writers' Guild Medal

General John J. Pershing, general of the Armies of the United States, has been advised that he has been awarded the Silver Medal of the Writers' Guild of America in recognition of his literary talent evidenced in his recently published memoirs. The notification came from W. Vernon-Cole, of Luynes, France, honorary president of the guild. The presentation will probably be made in France this summer.

The letter of notification was as follows:

VERNON-COLE
Luynes (Indre-&Loire)
France.

3 April, 1936.

General John J. Pershing,
Commander of the American Armies,
Hotel Crillon, PARIS.

My dear General:

By the Writers' Guild of America, Inc. I have been commissioned to present you the silver medal for your last book—which is certainly a great human document.

Will you, my General, accept this modest proof of the very great attachment of writers everywhere who continue to look to you as their guidance for bravery, for sagacity and eminent literary talents?

If so, my General, I shall bring the medal to Paris (or you may be here in Touraine—where you would be looked upon as a Greco-Latin god).

Always at your service, my dear General,

I am

At your orders,

(Sgd.) W. Vernon-Cole,

Deficiency Appropriations

The First Deficiency Bill for 1936, reported out by the House Appropriation Committee, May 7, carries supplemental and deficiency estimates for National Defense of $16,698,295.49, which includes the Army, Navy and Coast Guard and an estimate for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

Army Funds

The Bill for the fiscal year 1936 carries a supplemental estimate of $7,000,000 for an Air Corps depot in the vicinity of Sacramento, Calif. The Budget Bureau recommended the appropriation owing to the removal of the Army from Rockwell Field on North Island, in San Diego Harbor, and also to the need of an Air Corps depot centrally situated to serve the entire west coast area.

Other supplemental and deficiency estimates of the Army which total $5,380,000 are: Subsistence of the Army, 1936, $3,740,000; Army transportation, 1936, $600,000; Repairs of arsenals, 1936, $140,000; Military Academy, pay and maintenance, $600,000, and construction of runways, Langley Field, Va., $300,000.

The $600,000 recommended for Army transportation is occasioned by regulations of the Steamboat Inspection Service, necessitating the provision of new and additional lifesaving equipment and devices aboard harbor boats and transports under War Department jurisdiction.

Supplemental and deficiency estimates for the Navy Department totalling $2,252,345.49 were recommended except for $750 for painting a portrait of Thomas Walker Gilmer, Secretary of the Navy during President John Tyler's administration.

Navy Recommendations

Recent surveys have disclosed that the boilers of 74 auxiliary vessels are in an unsafe condition and as the Chief of Naval Operations considers 68 of these to be indispensable to the proper functioning of the fleet, a total of $850,000 is estimated for reboiling of the 68 auxiliary vessels of which the USS Langley is one. A sum of $750,000 is also provided for fuel oil.

Also recommended is $95,000 for subsistence of the Marine Corps.

The supplemental estimates of the following naval public works projects were also recommended:

Navy Yard, Mare Island, Calif.; Dispensary building and accessories, $80,000; Naval Operating Base, Norfolk, Va.; Improvement of heating plant, $75,000; Naval Torpedo Station, Newport, R. I.; Ferry docking facilities, carpenter shop building and accessories, $127,000; Naval Proving Ground, Dahlgren, Va.; Improvement of airplane landing field, $90,000, and Fleet air base, Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; Improvement of service systems and extension of roads and walks, $184,000.

A supplemental appropriation of $1,367,000 was recommended to the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics for the construction of additional facilities for research and development in connection with aviation. A sum of $1,100,000 was recommended for a wind tunnel in which to investigate large models of airplanes at air speeds varying from 100 to 250 miles per hour and to obtain data which cannot be obtained with any available equipment. Also included in the recommendation is $267,000 for the extension of the present seaplane towing tank.

Coast Guard

The following recommendations of expenditures were made for the Coast Guard: Rebuilding and repairing stations, $310,700 to remain available until June 30, 1937; Communication lines, $32,000; Contingent expenses, a transfer of $10,000; Repairs to vessels, $175,000 to remain available until June 30, 1937; Outfits, $181,000 of which $70,000 is to remain available until June 30, 1937; Pay and allowances, a transfer of $30,000 for civilian employees, Coast Guard, and a transfer of $50,000 for Fuel and Water, Coast Guard.

FINANCE

Financial Digest

The daily average volume of Federal Reserve bank credit outstanding during the week ended April 29, as reported by the Federal Reserve banks, was $2,470,000,000, a decrease of $9,000,000 compared with the preceding week and an increase of $5,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1935.

On April 29 a total Reserve bank credit amounted to $2,472,000,000, a decrease of $3,000,000 for the week. This decrease corresponds with a decrease of $61,000,000 in Treasury cash and deposits with Federal Reserve banks and an increase of $12,000,000 in monetary gold stock, offset in part by increases of $84,000,000 in member bank reserve balances and $6,000,000 in nonmember deposits and other Federal Reserve accounts. Member bank reserve balances on April 29 were estimated to be approximately $2,600,000,000 in excess of legal requirements.

Relatively small changes were reported in holdings of discounted and purchased bills, industrial advances, and United States Government securities.

All three are training at West Point under Mr. John Dimond, the cadet sword instructor.

Lieutenant Weber is also training for the Modern Pentathlon team—riding, running, shooting, swimming and fencing.

General Malone's Retirement

Upon the occasion of his retirement from active duty on April 30, Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, USA, commanding general of the Fourth Army and the Ninth Corps Area, issued the following statement:

I terminate today my duty on the Active List of the Army after more than forty-five years of service.

A feeling of deep gratitude comes to me for every opportunity my Country has given me to face the risks and uphold the policies for which our Army was created.

During the long period of time I have been privileged to serve my Country, we have seen monarchies shattered, governments destroyed, the geography of the world changed, and dictators created by armies and navies in bloody revolt, but as I close my active career I look back on an unsurpassed record of loyal service rendered by the military and naval forces of America; and to my brothers in arms and to the soldiers and men of the armed forces of the United States, I say:

"I salute you, incorruptible guarantors of the Constitution of the United States, stalwart defenders of the Declaration of Independence, and, if need be, the final defenders of the American home."

The following letter from Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding the Third Army and the Eighth Corps Area, to General Malone, also was made public: Congratulations to you and to yours on the great record of your service. Best wishes for continuance of health, happiness and success. Above all, the expression of my affectionate admiration for a classmate and friend who has richly deserved the many honors which have been awarded him.

West Coast Notes

The Navy Department has backed up the Commandant of the Navy Yard, Mare Island, in opposing the bill introduced by Congressman Richard J. Welch of California, which would grant a right of way over the property of the Navy Yard to the State of California for the building of a state automobile highway from Vallejo to Sonoma County.

The State of California proposes to purchase for this purpose, an existing toll road, known locally as the Sears Point Toll Road. This road passes over property, the ownership of which is now in litigation between the government and the private owners of the toll road, it being the contention of the government that the road encroaches on the property of the Navy Yard.

The primary reason for the Navy's opposition to the bill introduced by Congressman Welch rests on the development of plans to extend the industrial activities of the Navy Yard by using the land, the ownership of which is yet to be settled by the courts.

The effort of the State of California to obtain a right of way through an act of Congress is not being favored by many citizens in Vallejo who are employed in the Navy Yard and their opposition is gaining strength among the residents in the nearby cities and towns.

Naval circles in San Diego are taking a very keen interest in the arrival of Plutarco Elias Calles, exiled president of Mexico, to make his home in the city. With the coming of ex-president Calles, San Diego can lay claim to being the only city in the United States that is providing a home and asylum to two former presidents of the Republic of Mexico. Besides former president Calles, San Diego takes justifiable pride in having as a resident former president of Mexico, General Ortiz Rubio. The latter has found San Diego a pleasant and safe place to live in for the past several years.

General Rubio has assiduously and successfully cultivated the company of officers of the Navy and their families from the commencement of his residence in the city. The hospitality of the Rubio home has become noted in naval circles in and around San Diego. Moreover, the general and Mrs. Rubio have been frequent guests at social functions on board ships of the Navy, based on San Diego. General Rubio enjoys the friendship of many of the flag officers in the Fleet and has accepted the Navy's invitation to review the recruit battalions at the Naval Training Station, San Diego.

It remains to be seen to what extent former president Calles will follow the example of General Rubio in participating in the social functions of the Navy at San Diego. At present, the newest presidential exile is making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Josephine Torrellano and her husband who preceded his coming to San Diego by several months.

San Diego is regarded as an ideal residence city for exiled presidents of Mexico. In addition to offering complete asylum and social acceptability the city is ideally located for Mexican residents who may desire to maintain certain and easy contacts with associates who may be residing across the border. This is only twenty miles south of the city limits of San Diego.

Naval pocket books are the fatter in San Diego and the treasury of Mexico is the poorer because of the ban placed on the operation of the gambling games and the horse racing at Agua Caliente by the present administration in Mexico City. The ban is likewise effective in Tia Juana which lies on the route from San Diego to Agua Caliente. No statement has ever been made by the administration to explain the reasons for the suppression of gambling at the resorts mentioned.

Strangely enough, gambling is reported to be wide open at Ensenada, a resort that came into full bloom some years after millions of dollars had been spent to make the barren lands of Agua Caliente into a fairy land for those who would woo the goddess of chance. Here the Navy found much amusement and recreation in the racing, the dancing, and the consumption of Mexican food in the dining rooms of the Casino.

Ensenada is highly regarded as a place for amusement and recreation by the naval people who have taken the time to make the much longer journey that is required to go there from San Diego. Ensenada is a four hour motor trip while less than an hour was needed to drive to Agua Caliente and still less to Tia Juana.

No statement has been made by the Mexican authorities as to when if ever, the ban will be lifted from Agua Caliente. Meanwhile the naval colony in southern California is saving money and San Diego businessmen are in a quandary. They were the gainers when Caliente was open because their city was the gateway to Mexico for thousands of people who came from all points north enroute to the resorts across the border. Now that Caliente is closed up tight, Navy money is staying at home and San Diego should be the gainer thereby.

at the Taft Hotel in New York City, Monday, May 11. His subject will be the recent National Convention at St. Louis, Mo. The meeting will be a memorial service for the late Chaplain Ernest W. Wood, USA.

During his visit to New York, Colonel Brasted will visit several of the posts in the Second Corps Area.

Organization Activities

14th Infantry, Ft. Davis, C. Z.—The Fourteenth Infantry celebrates its Regimental Day on Aug. 14, the anniversary of the capture of Pekin, during the Boxer Uprising. For a number of years this regiment has attempted to mail Regimental Day literature to former members of the 14th Infantry. Any officer or enlisted man who has not been receiving this literature and would like to have his name placed on the mailing list, can have that done by writing to The Adjutant, 14th Infantry, Ft. Davis, Canal Zone, stating when, where and with what unit he served. The 14th Infantry, whose motto is "The Right of the Line," is hoping to have an especially fine celebration on Aug. 14, next.

Headquarters Battery, 3rd FA Brigade, Ft. Lewis, Wash. Headquarters Battery Third Field Artillery Brigade, turned out Sunday April 19, 1936, for an outing on Mt. Rainier, near Tacoma, Washington.

Several members of the organization whose homes are in the south had never before seen so much snow or even a pair of skis.

Mid-day lunch was served on snow twenty to thirty feet deep.

Headquarters Co., 29th Inf.—Headquarters company stood a regimental inspection inside and outside by the Regimental Commander, Col. Asa L. Singleton, recently. Following the inspection the company received a complimentary remark from Colonel Singleton for having such a fine appearance for individual equipment as well as the company barracks.

The company now has an amateur radio station, W4-DZW, and is sending messages free of charge to various amateur radio stations throughout the world. Pvt. 1st Willis L. Buckner is the company radio operator.

24th Inf., Ft. Benning, Ga.—Master Sergeant William H. Ransom, Headquarters Company, 24th Infantry, having completed the equivalent of thirty years service, was retired from active duty April 30. He completed his active career with a record that is coveted by all who select the Army as a profession; eight honorable discharge certificates, each bearing character "excellent."

The congratulations of the regimental commander and the entire regiment were tendered Sergeant Ransom upon the completion of his long service, which was all served in the 24th Infantry with exception of the three years he served in the Philippines with the Hospital Corps. Sergeant Ransom plans to make his home in Philadelphia, Pa.

29th Inf., Ft. Benning, Ga.—Sergeant James Jackson, Service Company, 29th Infantry, who completed thirty years active service in the Army April 30, was placed on the retired list, effective that date.

Enlisting in August 1901, for duty with the 32nd Company, Coast Artillery Corps, at Ft. Baker, California, Sergeant Jackson had only been in the service sixteen months when the great earthquake struck San Francisco in April 1906, and due to the fact that he was on his first enlistment at that time he is one of the few, if not the last active duty soldier in the service, who saw service with the army units that were on duty in the stricken area for seventeen days following the disaster.
